DELTA SPIRIT.
SOUTHERN SOUL.

DISCOVER WHAT MOVES YOU IN Greenwood.

VISITGREENWOOD.COM | 662.453.9197
STAR OF THE WEST, an ocean-going steamer that drew the first shots of America’s Civil War now lies buried in the mud of the Tallahatchie River. Hear its remarkable story when you visit Greenwood.

ROBERT JOHNSON, a legendary bluesman who dealt with the devil, wound up with no less than three grave markers near Greenwood. Make up your own mind about where his spirit still hovers. © Delta Haze Corp.

RILEY “B.B.” KING, whose voice was born on the dusty backroads of Leflore County, has his own Mississippi Blues Trail marker near Berclair. Get directions at msbluestrail.org © B.B. King Museum and Delta Interpretive Center

WGRM RADIO STATION, high atop the famous “Three Deuces” of Howard Street, first sent B.B. King’s sound across the airwaves of Mississippi. Look for this Blues Trail site in the heart of downtown. © B.B. King Museum and Delta Interpretive Center

More history per mile than any other city in Mississippi.
EMMETT TILL, a Chicago teenager whose murder rocked the world, spent one of the last nights of his life in Greenwood. Follow Money Road north of town to find the place where America’s Civil Rights Movement found its spark.

HUBERT SUMLIN, listed as one of Rolling Stone magazine’s “100 Greatest Guitarists of All Time,” was born in Greenwood in 1931. His Blues Trail marker overlooks the timeless Yazoo River.

THE HELP, nominated for an Academy Award as “Best Picture of 2011,” was based on Kathryn Stockett’s best-selling novel and filmed almost entirely in Greenwood. Pick up a copy of The Help self-guided tour map to see the familiar sites from the movie.

BOBBIE GENTRY, whose haunting “Ode to Billie Joe” rocketed up the music charts in 1967, centered her song around Greenwood’s Tallahatchie Bridge. You’ll find her Mississippi Country Music Trail marker on the north end of tree-lined Grand Boulevard.
Tucked away in the curves of three rivers, just a few miles from where the Mississippi Delta gives way to the bluffs, Greenwood pulls natives and newcomers into a land of blues and cypress swamps, to-die-for food, luxuriant spas and one-of-a-kind shops. Whether you’re looking for a weekend at Mississippi’s most celebrated hotel, an easy stroll through a century of fine architecture or a trek down dusty roads along the Blues Trail, you’ve come to the right place.
First we eat, then we do everything else.
—M.F.K. Fisher

In the Mississippi Delta, meals are an art form.

You’ll find everything from melt-in-your-mouth steaks to sky-high-pie and onion rings that should be illegal. Take your time, savor the unusual and try something outlandish. And remember this rule: Nobody leaves Greenwood hungry.

Whether your pleasure is cracking open a bestseller on the porch at Turnrow Books or cracking a few eggs at the Viking Cooking School, you won't be bored in downtown Greenwood. Browse one of the South's finest antique collections in Russell's elegant showroom, find unique made in Mississippi gifts or create your own masterpiece at Painting with Friends. If you're looking to shop, Greenwood has many unique and diverse merchants offering a variety of shopping opportunities, from the trendiest fashions hot off the runways to beautiful home decor.
Even if you don't know a sous chef from a souffle, you’re sure to have the time of your life at one of Viking’s cooking classes. Kids’ classes, couples’ nights, girls’ weekends: there’s sure to be a Viking class that’s just right for you.

IN 1987, THE VIKING RANGE CORPORATION introduced its restaurant-quality stoves for the home. Viking’s blue and gray badge quickly came to be a symbol for kitchen appliances that transformed cooking chores into a daily culinary adventure. Right here in Greenwood, of all places, a worldwide phenomenon was born and nights at the dinner table would never be the same.
The Alluvian Spa offers specials unique to our area such as the Delta Escape, High Cotton Indulgence, The Crossroads, and Date Night in the Delta.

Leave your excuses at home.
The time to relax is when you don’t have time for it.

Carrying all those gift bags and studying menus might just wear you out. Schedule a little down time at The Alluvian Spa for rejuvenating massages, facials and body wraps. Have those nails buffed and polished and don’t forget to pick up some goodies for a new outlook on life before you leave.
THE ANCHOR OF DOWNTOWN Greenwood is the Alluvian Hotel, the Delta’s first boutique hotel and a top-rated luxury hotelery recreated from the 1917 Hotel Irving. From its elegant lobby, the scene of live music and quiet conversations, to the skyline views outside the 4th floor Terrace Room, you’re going to have to remind yourself that you’re still in the heart of the Delta.
THE BLUES TRAIL & THE FREEDOM TRAIL

FOLLOW THE RICH CONTRIBUTIONS of Greenwood’s African Americans to Civil Rights and Blues history through the distinctive markers along the Blues Trail and Freedom Trail. Bryant’s Grocery in Money and Broad Street Park, the site of the “Black Power Speech,” are recognized on the Freedom Trail. Visit www.msbluestrail.org or download the smartphone app to find markers for such legends as B.B. King, Furry Lewis, Guitar Slim, and Hubert Sumlin. Don’t forget to pick up your self-guided tour maps for the Robert Johnson story and the Greenwood Civil Rights History experience at the Greenwood CVB office.

Greenwood CVB is happy to provide tour operators with step-on guides for local Civil Rights and/or Blues heritage tours.
MUSEUMS

MUSEUM OF THE MISSISSIPPI DELTA
1608 Highway 82 West | 662-453-0925
museumofthemississippidelta.com
Monday - Saturday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Packed with everything from arrowheads to Greenwood LeFlore’s furniture, this museum offers a glimpse into America’s unusual corner.

BACK IN THE DAY MUSEUM
214 Young Street, Baptist Town | 662-392-5370
Monday - Saturday 8 a.m. - 6 p.m.
(BY APPOINTMENT ONLY)
Sylvester Hoover will guide you through a community museum, exploring the culture and history of Baptist Town and the Delta’s African-American story.

Learn from the past and celebrate those who made a difference.
YAZOO RIVER ARBORETUM AND RIVER TRAIL
The lush parkland between Greenwood’s downtown bridges has developed into a popular spot for walking, gathering for festivals and river watching. The boat ramp is available for those with watercraft to put in and head downstream or upstream to Point Leflore, where the three rivers merge.

PADDLING TRAIL
A group of kayak and canoe fans have mapped day and overnight floats down the peaceful, scenic Yalobusha River from Grenada to Greenwood. Experience the Delta as it was when settlers first arrived. Brochures are available at our office.
The natural environment surrounding Greenwood makes this a hunter’s mecca, a wonderland of big bucks and ducks by the thousands. Whether you’re an experienced outdoorsman or in need of a helpful guide, bring your boats, your dogs, your guns and your reels and head back home with bragging rights and great memories.

“Nothing is more beautiful than the loveliness of the woods before sunrise.”
—George Washington Carver

DELTA SUNSETS ARE JUST part of the magic and mystery you’ll find on a trip to Greenwood. Your memorable day may have included shopping, a massage or an early morning duck hunt, there’ll likely be an unforgettable meal at evening’s end, but you haven’t truly “done the Delta” ‘til your hearts are as wide open as the horizon when you see the endless flatlands glowing orange as the day melts into the horizon. Reservations not required on the Keesler Bridge.
